

Essential Evangelization

Called to Share

A revolution of sorts is mounting in the Catholic Church in the United States. This revolution seeks to restore, to mend, and to heal. It is a confusing time to be a Catholic. The Catholic Church in America is struggling with turmoil, rebellion, confusion, and startling discoveries of its real identity and mission.

In a very real sense the victims of the revolution in the Catholic Church are those men and women whose Catholic heritage rests on a foundation of vague memories and fragmented truths. They seek something deeper from life, something to replace confusion and insecurity with purpose and serenity. These victims are really “seekers” because of their contagious quest for an honest faith experience.

If you haven't committed to be an “official” member of our St. Thomas a' Becket family yet - take a leap of faith and join our family to discover the love and healing of Jesus in your life!

This is one of a series of articles on Evangelization from the Evangelization Committee